

HR Organizational Structure Master

Human resource management consists of deliberate organizational activities designed to improve employee productivity and administration through such means as recruitment, compensation, performance, evaluation, training, record keeping and compliance.

Department Master

Designation Master

Employee category Master

Employee grade Master